

Hotel Icon

The Delano in Miami is, arguably, one of the world's most famous and glamorous hotels. Launched in 1996 by Ian Schrager's Morgans Hotel Group (with which he is no longer involved) and with show-stopping, cutting-edge designs by Philippe Starck (where The Delano began, the rest followed), the Delano is long overdue for a suitably gorgeous design overhaul. Already one of South Beach's most expensive hotels, with a colourful redesign by Tim Andreas in the offing (but with Starck's iconic lobby strictly off-limits) with room renovations, a basement lounge and improved spa pencilled in, the Morgans Hotel Group are taking the Delano brand up a notch. And with a 600-room Delano planned for Vegas, it seems that this is just the beginning.
